Dr. Peter Dorman was the president of the American University of Beirut (AUB) from 2008 to 2015. Founded in 1866, AUB bases its educational approach on the U.S. liberal arts model. Dr. Dorman led a major expansion of AUB’s medical center, invigorated interdisciplinary research, and initiated the university’s most ambitious fundraising campaign. He is currently Professor of History and Archaeology at AUB, where he is a renowned expert in the study of the ancient Near East, particularly Egyptology, and a noted historiographer, epigrapher and philologist.
